

BACKGROUNDER VFW's #StillServing Campaign

Launched in October 2020, VFW's #StillServing highlights how America's combat veterans continue to serve in their local communities after transitioning from the military. What started as a campaign became a movement as the veterans across the country stepped up to share stories of how they are still serving.

In the two years since #StillServing began:

- More than 2 million people have engaged with #StillServing.
- It has generated more than 60 million impressions across social channels and in earned media.
- Increasingly, younger, more diverse veterans are represented in #StillServing year-to-year.
- Over 300 news outlets have reported on the hundreds of acts of service by veterans still serving after leaving active duty in areas that include:
 - Food drives
 - Cloth, N95 and face shield creation
 - PPE transport
 - National Guard deployments to field hospitals
 - Vaccination clinics
 - PTSD therapies
 - Personal item collections

- Military to civilian transition support
- Service animal training
- Residential placement
- Support service liaison
- Severe weather relief – tornado, hurricane, flood
- Accessibility build outs
- Local legislative advocacy
- Emergency response volunteering
- Volunteer classroom teaching, mentoring, assistance
- VA hospitals, clinics, retirement facilities visits

The overwhelming response by veterans and the civilian community to #StillServing led to additional launches:

2021 #StillServing Dogs, asked veterans to bring attention to the role of dogs in areas such as – aiding veterans with physical or mental injuries; veterans who train service, working or therapy dogs; dogs who assisted service members during a military operation; dogs aiding in emergency response units.

2022 #VFW Day of Service, inviting veterans, non-profit organizations and civilian community members to come together to raise resources (not funds), meets needs and make a tangible difference. Day of Service launches Saturday, May 7, 2022, marking the start of community service projects taking place throughout the month of May.
